Murrelektronik measures against potential energy shortages

Dear valued business partner,

For some time now, the political situation has led to uncertainty beyond regional and functional boundaries, and not least with regards to the important issue of potential gas or energy shortages in general.

We understand the general concern about how the latter may affect you and your customers. We would therefore like to proactively reach out to you today to share some of the actions we are taking:

We have been closely monitoring and assessing the situation for some time and have established a cross-divisional and cross-functional team of experts. With the help of this team, we have analyzed our processes, infrastructure, and supply chains regarding possible risks and have already initiated and implemented the first corresponding hedging measures.

Examples include increased stockpiling, emergency power supplies, the development of alternative heating options and the creation of a heating network.

We are in continuous exchange within our worldwide Murrelektronik network as well as with our partners and suppliers and are confident that we can continue to react dynamically and cautiously in order to minimize the risks and effects.

If you have any further questions, please do not hesitate to contact your main contact persons within Murrelektronik.

With best regards,

Your Murrelektronik
